FINISHED IS BETTER THAN PERFECT

One of my favorites on Lisa's List is "Finished is better than perfect." My book is finished, even though it's not perfect. It has hopefully served its purpose because we needed to start someplace.

I believe in the awesome power of storytelling. Humans have been compelled to share stories ever since we've walked this Earth for a reason. These are some of my stories. Maybe you needed to read them in order to get a message only you'll understand. Perhaps it's for you as well as someone you know, and now it is up to you to take action.

Writing is something I primarily do for myself. Sometimes I share my stories with folks, and sometimes these experiences are to remain between me and those divine sources that have reached through the veils of time and space to interact with me.

Granted, some of this book's stories aren't typical, everyday events. Trust me; I get it. I believe there are questions to be asked that are bigger than I can even comprehend, bigger than me or my experiences. What if these stories needed to be told for a purpose bigger than I could possibly conceive? To not share them is inconceivable at this point.

I don't have all the answers, and that's why I continue to search, study, explore, experiment, and pursue the known and unknown; test and obliterate boundaries; ignore critics; avoid the uninitiated; rediscover the hidden as well as obvious truths; share what I've learned thus far; and remain in a state of childlike wonderment driven by my insatiable curiosity. Apparently, you also share some of these traits.

Persistence, like curiosity, is a constant throughout my life that has served me well. I've had many ups and downs, as you have seen in the tiny sampling here on these pages, and I cannot fathom my life any other way than the extraordinary adventure it has been thus far.

With the Cahokia Event in 2010, things have changed dramatically and continue to get more interesting by the day—from the iridescence of my skin and the light radiating from me to my other rapidly evolving abilities. Some days it's overwhelming, but most days, it is fun, magickal, and wondrous.

I have absolutely no idea where this is all heading, and I wouldn't want it any other way. I'm genuinely excited about the possibilities and what the future holds for me and all of us. My life is a miracle in more ways than one because I'm still alive to even talk about it. It's not that I believe in miracles; I know them because I experience them quite frequently (and maybe even create some now and then).

I knew I needed to get this book out into the world even though I've not finished learning or training and haven't completed the various other projects I'm working on. I'm a work in progress and always will be.

We are never promised our next breath. More projects, updates, paranormal photos, and many more stories are yet to be experienced and shared. It's time to step back out into the world and live in the light on a much bigger scale than ever before. I believe the message from my guides that I must fulfill my destiny, not fail it. Part of my destiny includes connecting with you through this book.

Now you know a little more about me and my wild journey thus far. My sincerest hope and prayer is that I've given you some new things to think about, maybe a little inspiration, a boost of extra courage to live authentically if you've been hiding your gifts, some new possibilities to consider, even bigger questions to ponder, and maybe even a laugh or two.

I pray I've provided some hope and inspiration to those like me who may not be living their lives to the fullest or are denying their gifts and abilities because they fear what people will think, say, or do to them. Step out into the light and know the freedom of being your true, authentic self. You aren't alone and will never be alone.

And to the "normal" people who fear the unknown, the supernatural, witches, metaphysics, aliens, other dimensions, and all the other labels placed on what's "different," I hope I've given you some things to consider as well as put a human face on some of this extraordinary stuff. Hopefully, I've dispelled some incorrect "woo-woo" assumptions many wrongly make about people like me.

Perhaps my stories will reawaken forgotten memories of your own supernatural experiences, trigger a paradigm-shifting "Aha!" moment, or lead you to realize you do love all this weird, wonderful mystical stuff and that you're actually living in that big metaphorical Metaphysical Closet right now. Perhaps it's time to kick that door open and join the millions of us living authentically in the light.

There's a valid reason why people like me have always existed and will continue to thrive (and yes, help people, despite all the negativity). There are far greater considerations and consequences than most can fathom. Keep an open mind and an open, loving heart. Remember, sometimes you don't even know what you don't know.

A major key to consciously and purposefully moving forward is to search for what's "different" in your reality. Consciousness creates and alters everything, which may or may not be immediately observable. Even though you're still you, you're different every moment of every day, and it has always been that way from the second you incarnated.

Isn't that truly miraculous and wonderful? You are a different person than the one who started reading this book. You may not even consciously realize all the shifts that have occurred and will continue to play out in your reality. Then again, maybe you do realize how much you've transformed.

As I said in "Reverence for Metas and This Work" in chapter 2, one of the best things you can do to make a difference and support this type of work (me and those like me) is to spread the word. A five-star review is wonderful and greatly appreciated! Sharing and promoting this on all your social media as posting is all free to you and benefits not only me but everyone mentioned in this book (and what some call good karma) will manifest fascinating things in your life. Remember, morphic fields and our quantum entanglement. Send me or post photos of you holding the book, and I'll share those. Tell everyone you know about this book. Buy copies as gifts for friends, family, peers, co-workers, clients, patients, or anyone else you think might be interested in what's contained herein and could benefit in some way from all this information. Follow your instincts, and you'll always benefit by doing what's right.

I look forward to possibly meeting you somewhere out there in the future. Thank you from the depths of my infinite heart for buying my book and spending your precious time with me. I hope you enjoyed this little adventure because there's much more to come! Thank you for reading and being quantumly entangled with this magickal morphic field. Remember, your experiences and knowing can never be diminished by another's opinion.

Truly in love, humble service, and always the Light,
Lisa Rhyme

P.S. Remember, I didn't set out to write a literary masterpiece. This is a conversation between friends. I'll leave you with this to ponder:

A big question is, "What if I'm wrong?"
A bigger question is, "What if I'm right?"
